The May Manton Fashions

No. 5545—(With Basting Line and Added Seam Allowance.) Girls' Dress, 8 to 14 years.

Call at THE EVENING WORLD MAY MANTON FASHION BUREAU, Donald Building, 100 West Thirty-second Street (opposite Gimbel Bros.), corner Sixth Avenue and Thirty-second Street, New York, or sent by mail on receipt of ten cents in coin or stamps for each pattern ordered.

IMPORTANT—Write your address plainly and always specify size wanted. Add two cents for letter postage if in a hurry.

THE frock that is closed at the left shoulder is always a becoming one to the school-girl, and this season everything that suggests the Russian idea is in the height of style. This little dress can be closed as it is on the figure, up at the shoulder, and with a high collar, or it can be cut with a slightly open back if that is found more comfortable. It is a very pretty dress, a very practical dress and a very simple little garment to make. In the illustration the material is gabardine woven to give a bias effect, so that one has the pretty lines without the danger of sagging, which always comes from cutting the material on the bias. The trimming is broadcloth, which matches the blue that makes the foundation color of the plaid material, and altogether the frock is as smart as can be. It could be copied in broadcloth to be very pretty or in plain serge with bands of taffeta, or, if a still more dressy frock were wanted, it could be made of taffeta throughout with velvet as trimming. The wool pelisse are fashionable too and are being much used, and if the younger girls like washable materials for their school frocks, it could be copied in linen or in cotton poplin or in any similar material to make a good effect.

For the 12 year size will be needed 4½ yards of material 27 inches wide, 3½ yards 36 or 38 yards 44 inches wide, with ¼ yard 54 inches wide for the bands. The pattern No. 5545 is cut in sizes from 8 to 14 years.

WHAT TO WEAR IN THE AFTERNOON.

DESIGN for the afternoon is always more elaborate than morning dress, but of course much depends on just what the afternoon occupation is to be. If it happens to be one's day at home and callers are expected, any pretty house gown or perhaps a lace or chiffon blouse worn with a handsome skirt will be correct. But by "house gown" do not understand me to mean the cheap one-piece frock that is called a "house dress," or the elaborate negligee that used to supersede under the name "tea gown," and which was really only another form of the old wrapper. Anything of this sort is in extremely bad taste when worn in the afternoon. It is intended only for informal morning wear. A house gown for afternoon wear is any sort of dress of silk, wool, velvet or corduroy, &c., that is not emphatically a street toilet.

PARADISE SERGE
REPRODUCED BY BUTTERICK

Afternoon frocks this season are very smart, both in design and material. Some of the most fashionable are made of ribbed silk. All varieties of this sort of silk are used, from the heavy grosgrain to the finest falles. Finer frocks are made of serge. The texture of this serge is so light that it is never used for street suits, but only for one-piece frocks. The very fine twill is the only kind of serge used; the coarser variety is not fashionable. Broadcloth in lightweight velvet, velveteen and silk cloth in lightweight velvet, velveteen and silk cloth, while for elaborate afternoon functions like teas or receptions net, chiffon and the new taffetas in Watteau shades, tinsel cloth or light weight satin can be worn.

Skirts of afternoon frocks are wide and short. The hem is treated in a variety of ways, showing exceeding ingenuity on the part of the designer; sometimes they are scalloped and sometimes draped in points, and then again they are plain. It is just as individual taste dictates.

A great many buttons, especially ball buttons, are used for trimming this season. One of the frocks here photographed illustrates most smartly this fancy of fashion. This pretty model is made of gabardine, a new variety of serge, in the new shade of bright blue. The blouse portion is cut with a deep belt fastened with buttons and set off by effective touches of bright Bulgarian embroidery, as is also the rather deep collar of the dress material that falls over the back. The sleeves have slightly flaring cuffs that come down well over the knuckles and are trimmed with buttons. Buttons are also used to outline the openings of the novel pockets on each side of the front and to ornament the full skirt in the centre front where one side is lapped over the other. The other afternoon gown is slightly more elaborate. It is made of chiffon cloth trimmed with blue fox. Fur is really the most fashionable garniture used on these

WENT RAIDING WITHOUT CONSULTING INSPECTORS

Commissioner Says Costigan Was Not Aided by Any Superior Officers.

Police Commissioner Woods announced today that the gambling raids by ninety policemen under Lieut. Dan Costigan early Sunday morning were not directed at any inspector or police captain. Costigan made the raids, the Commissioner said by reason of the authority vested in him as a squad commander with a roving commission. Some of the raiders were long black masks. These, the Commissioner explained, were the men who set the evidence. To reveal their identity to the gamblers would destroy their future usefulness. Other places raided were the Young Men's Democratic Club, No. 43 West One Hundred and Thirtieth Street; a dwelling at No. 7 Hamilton Place, and a cigar store in the basement of No. 693 Sixth Avenue.

43 KILLED BY AUTOS HERE IN ONE MONTH

Increase of 18 Fatal Accidents Over Same Period of Last Year.

According to a report issued today by the National Highway Protective Society, forty-three persons were killed by automobiles, six by trolleys and four by wagons in the streets of New York City during October. Of this number twenty-seven were children under seventeen years. This is an increase of eighteen fatal automobile accidents and a decrease of two by trolleys and three by wagons, as compared with October last year. Of all the boroughs Manhattan shows the greatest increase in fatal automobile accidents.

The report further shows that in New York State, outside of New York city, during the month of October, forty-two persons were killed by automobiles, three by trolleys and three by wagons. During the same period in New Jersey twenty-four persons were killed by automobiles.

FUGITIVE MURDERER RIDDLED WITH BULLETS

Connecticut Man Who Killed Detective Is Shot Down by Police as He Shows Fight.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Nov. 1.—Huddled with bullets, as a result of a shooting capture at Avon, Conn., today, Lindel H. Hurd, alias "Honey" Hurd, slayer of Detective Bennett W. Thomas of the

New Haven police force, is dying at St. Vincent's Hospital in this city. The capture was made near the "haunted" house, where Hurd had made his headquarters since arriving in this country about four months ago. He was caught from the house by supposed friends. The police, coming from New Haven and some from Bridgeport, were within thirty feet of Hurd when he saw them. He drew an automatic revolver, but as he started to fire he slipped. The officers opened fire on him and he was shot down. Hurd was not taken into custody. He was then made prisoner and conveyed in an ambulance to the hospital. Physicians there say he has practically no chance for recovery.

Yes, Put Quality First But—

Don't lose sight of quantity, when you are buying toilet paper. Demand to know positively how many sheets of paper there are in a roll—don't buy unless you see the count printed on the wrapper. Toilet paper can be loosely wound to make people think they're getting big value. Or the paper may be coarse and thick so that the big roll will really contain little paper.
